HARD OF HEARING.—I have a small bill lector, as he entered the store of one who had acquired the name of a hard customer.

Advertisers will please bear in mind that the circulation of the DAILY NEWS is more than DOUBLE that of the Daily Herald; and greater than the combined circulation of the Daily and Weekly Herald. As one proof of this fact, the list of Letters remaining in the Post-Office is advertised in the NEWS, as BY LAW REQUIRED.

We were informed on Saturday by Mr. Hazard, of the Bellevue House, that a large number of rooms in his house had already been engaged for the season, than in any previous year, at so early a date. A larger number of rooms have also been engaged in the Ocean and Atlantic Houses. All these houses have been newly painted inside, and everything is now being put in complete order, preparatory to the receipt of company.

A larger number of private residences have also been engaged by summer visitors here, than is usual, at so early a date. Judging from these things, we have every reason to believe that this will be a good season for Newport. This place is becoming more popular every year, as a watering place, and we should not be surprised if it were found necessary, in the course of a year or two, to erect more large Hotels for the accommodation of our visitors.

CHANGES IN THE CABINET.—A letter from Washington [semi official] to the Richmond Enquirer says: "I predict that Secretary Marcy will go Minister to Russia; and that Gen. F. B. Pierce, of New Hampshire, will succeed him in the War Department; also, as soon as these changes take place, Mr. Gillet, now Solicitor of the Treasury, will be appointed Attorney General."

James Erwin Esq. a grandson of Mr. Clay, shot himself at the St. Charles, in New Orleans, on the morning of the 3d inst. he was perfectly dead when he was discovered. No cause is assigned for the act.

Mr. E. resided in Kentucky, and went to New Orleans a few weeks since for the purpose of challenging S. S. Pottis for supposed imputations upon the character of his father, contained in a speech of Mr. P. before one of the Courts.

The challenge was given and accepted; but the affair was adjusted before it proceeded to extremities, by the interference of mutual friends.

A DIFFICULT CASE.—The Quakers in Virginia seems to be placed in a peculiar relation to the laws of Virginia. The yearly meeting of Baltimore, to which they belong has charged all its members to educate the free colored people. The laws of Virginia forbid it, and the Friends have addressed a Memorial to the General Assembly of the State of Virginia, asking liberty to pursue the advice of their yearly meeting. If liberty is not given, we do not know what course the Friends will take.

ARRIVAL OF A LONG EXPECTED VESSEL.—The British brig Thalia, from Cork, Ireland arrived at Boston Quarantine, after a passage of one hundred and thirty-six days. The Thalia put into Antigua in distress. She has 70 passengers, six died on the passage, and four are now sick. This is the vessel which was supposed to have been lost at sea, and her safe arrival will no doubt gladden the hearts of many, who had friends and relations on board.

JAIL TO LET.—The jail in this town is, we are informed, without an occupant, and we would recommend to our "town fathers" to let it for a boarding house, as it has several "lodging" rooms in it.

STEAMBOAT DISASTER.—Another calamity has occurred at St. Louis. The steamer Charter Oak, lying at Dutch's landing, was totally destroyed by fire on Wednesday evening, and the first engineer and four others perished in the flames. Upwards of eight hundred tons of valuable freights was likewise destroyed. The Charter Oak had also on board 130 tons of hemp, consigned to several houses in New Orleans, upon which there was no insurance.

THE ASTOR ESTATE.—The N. Y. Mirror says that Mr. Astor's fortune which has been variously estimated at twelve, fifteen, twenty, and even twenty-five millions of dollars, turns out not to exceed seven millions and a half.

THE SLAVE TRADE.—The following information on the present position of the slave trade, collected from a number of parliamentary reports, appeared in a London newspaper (the Globe):—

"We gather from this mass of papers, that the progress yet made towards the suppression of the slave trade by force, is very small. The trade is now, apparently carried on principally for the supply of the Brazilian demand. There, the force of popular opinion, and the weakness of the government, combine to render futile all attempts to oppose any effectual opposition to the landing and sale of the slaves when they arrive. The sole check to the trade is found in the risk of capture on or near the African coast. After the loss of several vessels in succession, the dealers are for a while unwilling to speculate. But the arrival of one or two cargoes in safety revives their hopes, and the traffic is renewed with all its former vigor. During the war in China, the British force cruising for the capture of slave ships was reduced. The slave trade then increased very considerably. When the war was over, and the cruising squadron was strengthened, it declined. The year 1845, in particular, was a bad one for the Brazilian slave-dealers. But in January, 1846, two vessels succeeded in reaching Bahia with their cargoes in safety, and landed, one 818, and the other—a yacht of fifty-one tons, 160 slaves. In March, the brig Tres Amigos landed at the same port 1350 slaves; and a few days afterwards the yacht Amelia, 169 tons, landed 348 more. Much of this success undoubtedly arose from the failure of Mr. Hamilton, in December, 1845, to obtain a new treaty with the Brazilian government, and the subsequent neglect of the authorities to do anything whatever to discourage the trade. Its immediate result is told in a despatch from our consul at Bahia, dated 4th May, 1846. He says—"In consequence of the capture of ten or twelve vessels from this port during the past year, the slave dealers were much dispirited; and some of the principal ones had commenced breaking up their establishments on the coast. The arrival alluded to (that of the Tres Amigos) has, however, caused a re-action. Six vessels have again been fitted out for this destination, two of which have already sailed."

"In the three months ending 30th of June, 1846, five vessels fitted as slave ships left Bahia in ballast, and three arrived, and landed 1280 slaves. Before the 30th September, five more vessels landed, at the same port, 1878 slaves; and several were sent out fitted for the trade." Our consul, writing in September, says—"Every facility is now given for the landing of slaves in all parts of the province, and even within the precincts of this city. As no effort is made by the authorities to put a stop to this proceeding, it gives an additional impetus to the slave dealers to fit out a greater number of vessels for the express purpose of bringing slaves to this place. The number of vessels now returned is double that of the preceding quarter."

"The returns from Rio afford no information as to the number of slaves landed there in 1846. At Para, it appears that the slaves form but a small proportion of the colored population, and that a very few had recently been brought there. At Paraiba, also, the trade prevailed only to a very limited extent." From Pernambuco, the British consul, writing in April, 1846, says—"For the last eighteen months no vessels has safely landed a full cargo of slaves from Cape St. Roque to the Rio San Francisco; they have invariably, in part or whole, been seized and appropriated to themselves or friends, by the government officer at the different districts." The British commissioner, however, estimated the total illicit importation of African slaves into Brazil, in 1845, at 16,000, or less by nearly 3300 than in the year before. The actual number imported in 1846 was probably not far from twice that number.

Besides the Brazilian ports, the chief markets for fresh importations of African slaves are in Cuba and Porto Rico. Early in 1846 Mr. Bulwer obtained from the Spanish government a promise to forbid the connivance of their colonial governors in the trade; and, accordingly, since May in that year, O'Donnell, the captain-general of Cuba has been acting under orders to discourage the landing of slaves, and to afford us all requisite facilities for preventing their importation. There is abundant reason for believing that such obedience as he gives to these orders is much against his will; and there is a strong party in the island always prepared to assist him in evading or neglecting them. So also at Porto Rico, the governor declares, that as the trade is now unlawful, he will not permit it to be carried on; but there is little reliance to be placed upon his ability to prevent it, even though we admit the sincerity of his desire to do so.

"The owners of the ships and cargoes taken in the slave trade are almost invariably Spaniards, Portuguese, or Brazilians. Italians are sometimes met with among the crews. The vessels are very frequently of American origin, chosen for their sailing qualities, and for the cheapness of their materials. American seamen have been found in slaves, but there is generally evidence of their having been entrapped. They are engaged in American ports before the transfer of the vessel to the slave dealer, and before her destiny is known; and when they arrive on the coast of Africa, are driven to choose between being left there to shift for themselves, and coming home with the risk of capture. The American flag is frequently used to cover the vessel through the preliminary proceedings, and down even to the time of putting the slaves on board; and for this reason—the United States not allowing a right to search vessels so covered to any cruisers except her own—the risk of detection and stoppage is thus altogether avoided, unless an American vessel of war happens to be in the neighborhood."

MARYLAND WHEAT CROP.—The Hagerstown Herald of Freedom says:—"We understand the crops in Washington county look very promising—it is rather early however to speculate."

The Boonsboro [Md.] Odd Fellow says:—"The wheat never presented a better appearance in this section than it now does, and from every part of the county we have the most gratifying accounts. Farmers admit that the prospect has been fairer than it has been for the last six years."

The steamship Virginia, from Vera Cruz on the 26th, and Tampico on the 21st, has arrived at New Orleans. The impression is prevalent, and daily gains strength at Vera Cruz, that the army is about making a retrograde movement.

News from California.—The British mail steamer Aron, from Southampton 2d March, reached Ship Island, off New Orleans on Friday week. Among the passengers on board the Aron, was Midshipman Lee, bearer of despatches from Com. Jones, whom he left at Callao on the Ohio, on the 3d of February. Mr. Lee came to Havana by the British steamer from Chagres. He brings late advices from California, where everything was progressing favorably, and the country perfect tranquil.

TEN LIVES LOST.—The Columbian steamship Magdalena, built in New York for New Grenada and Carthagena, burst her boiler on the 15th of March, on her passage in the river to Carthagena. Capt. Beekman, of steamer New Grenada, was a passenger, and was killed with nine others. The boat was blown to pieces.

During my visit, there was living on Wothoo, Sandwich Islands, a woman of twelve years of age, who had already presented to an English husband three thriving pledges of connubial love.—Simpson's Overland Journey round the World.

A work has just been published, entitled the "Aristocracy of Boston," which states that it takes a hundred thousand dollars to make an aristocrat, and there are about two hundred aristocrats in Boston.

WHEAT CROP IN MICHIGAN.—A correspondent of the Detroit Advertiser, who has traveled through the counties of Macomb, Oakland, Genesee, Washtenaw, Jackson and Calhoun, says:—"There is, at present, every reason to anticipate a larger crop than Michigan has ever before known."

Wm. B. Astor has increased the Post Office pension from $200 to $1000 per annum. Is Mr. Halleck indebted to the larger generosity of the younger Astor, or to the power of the press, for his increase?

We regret to learn that the old and extensive house of Fox, Livingston, & Co. in New York, has stopped payment.

The Execution of Nash.—Thomas Nash, who had been convicted of murdering a female in this county, some two or three years ago, paid the penalty denounced by the law against his awful crime; he was hung at Troy, in Montgomery county, whether he had removed his cause for trial. The rope by which he was first suspended broke and he fell to the ground. He requested the handkerchief to be removed from his eyes, which was done, and he sat up and conversed with the bystanders until another rope was procured, and he was then hung. Verily "the way of the transgressor is hard."—Waynesburg (N. C.) Argus 4th inst.

It is reported that Gen. Shields, who has recently departed for Tampico as governor of that place, has been nominated as Brevet Major General of the Army.

If any one wishes a handiwork working set of teeth than that, which is eating away at some invisible provision in Dr. Morton's case of specimens, we have only to say that he is very unreasonable. Not content with a discovery by which one's teeth can be taken out without his knowing it, he will put in a set which may be worn with equal unconsciousness. There is an exquisite finish about the teeth and their fittings which foreign competition can hardly surpass. Judging from these specimens, one need not go beyond 19, Tremont Row for his ivory.—Mass. Ploughman.
